Part I Dialogue Completion (10 points)

Directions: In this part, there are 3 dialogues with 3 or 4 blanks, each followed by 4 choices marked A, B, C and D. Fill in each blank with the choice that best suits the situation until the dialogue is complete. With Dialogue One, all the choices will have to be used. With Dialogue Two and Dialogue Three, one choice will be left unused. Mark your answer on the ANSWER SHEET with a single bar through the centre of the letter that indicates your choice.

Dialogue One

Roger: So, how is your new roommate?

Martha: 1

Roger: What happened?

Martha: She's always making loud noises at midnight and when I remind her, she always makes rude remarks.

Roger: 2

Martha: I tried, but it didn't work.

Roger: 3

Martha: At least three times. I guess I'm going to complain to the manager. 4

Roger: Maybe.

A. Why don't you have a heart to heart chat with her?

B. She really turns me off.

C. I hope she can be driven out.

D. But how many times did you try?

Dialogue Two

Frank: I just received a letter from one of my old high school buddies.

Sarah: 5

Frank: Well, actually I haven't heard from him in ages.

Sarah: To be frank with you, I've been out of touch with most of my old friends. 6

Frank: I know. It's really hard to maintain contact when people move around so much.

Sarah: That's right. 7 But you're lucky to be back in touch with your buddy again.

A. People just drift apart!

B. That's nice!

C. Only one or two still keep me posted about what they are doing.

D. Do you often keep in touch with them?

Dialogue Three

Cindy: Would you like to have some ice-cream? I've got a variety of flavors for you to choose from.

I've got strawberry, peach, chocolate, chocolate chip, coffee, vanilla, and butter pecan.

Martha: Wow! 8 I wish I could, but I just can't. I'm on a diet to lose weight.

Cindy: Come on, it's just a bite. It doesn't really hurt to have just a bite.

Martha: 9 Please don't tempt me. Please!

Cindy: Gee! You are really strong-willed.

Martha: You're absolutely right. 10

Cindy: Well, I'd better not tempt you. Otherwise, if I give you a piece of cake, you might ask for a glass of milk.

A. I'm not so easily tempted into doing something that I think is wrong.

B. I'd better not.

C. I can hardly choose from.

D. What choices you have!

Part II Reading Comprehension (40 points)

Directions: There are 4 passages in this part. Each passage is followed by 5 questions or unfinished statements. For each of them there are 4 choices marked A, B, C and D. Choose the best one and mark your answer on the ANSWER SHEET with a single bar through the centre of the letter that indicates your choice.

Passage 1

Long bus rides are like television shows. They have a beginning, a middle, and an end—with commercials thrown in every three or four minutes. The commercials are unavoidable. They happen whether you want them or not. Every couple of minutes a billboard glides by outside the bus window. "Buy Super Clean Toothpaste." "Drink Root Beer." "Fill up with Pacific Gas." Only if you sleep, which is equal to turning the television set off, are you spared the unending cry of "You Need It! Buy It Now!"

The beginning of the ride is comfortable and somewhat exciting, even if you've traveled that way before. Usually some things have changed—new houses, new buildings, sometimes even a new road. The bus driver has a style of driving and it's fun to try to figure it out the first hour or so. If the driver is particularly reckless or daring, the ride can be as thrilling as a suspense story. Will the driver pass the truck in time? Will the driver move into the right or the left-hand lane? After a while, of course, the excitement dies down. Sleeping for a while helps pass the middle hours of the ride. Food always makes bus rides more interesting. But you've got to be careful of what kind of food you eat. Too much salty food can make you very thirsty between stops.

The end of the ride is somewhat like the beginning. You know it will soon be over and there's a kind of expectation and excitement in that. The seat, of course, has become harder as the hours have passed. By now you've sat with your legs crossed, with your hands in your lap, with your hands on the armrests—even with your hands crossed behind your head. The end comes just at the right time. There are just no more ways to sit.

11. According to the passage, what do the passengers usually see when they are on a long bus trip?

C. the drivers are always reckless on TV shows just as they are on buses
D. both traveling and watching TV are not exciting
15. The writer thinks that the end of the ride is somewhat like the beginning because both are _____.
A. exciting B. comfortable C. tiring D. boring

Passage 2

It was not much fun to travel on one of the old sailing ships. Life was hard for both passengers and crew. 17th century sailing ships were small and rolled heavily in rough seas, so most of the passengers were seasick.

There were no toilets, and the spaces below deck where passengers had to stay during gales were often not more than 5 foot high. Water was scarce and the little water they got was brown and smelt terrible.

Food was a problem, too—there was only salted meat, ship's biscuits and cheese, but the cheese was so hard that sailors often made buttons out of it for their jackets and trousers. There were no vegetables or fruit, so the people on board often fell ill.

The sailors, however, were a bit better off than the passengers. They each had a bottle of beer a day, and they needed. The work they had to do was hard and dangerous. Courage was needed, for the heavy sails had to be set and taken down in all kinds of weather, and quite often sailors were swept overboard in a gale. Almost the worst thing about the voyages was the time they took up to 70 days for the journey across the Atlantic. Not surprisingly, everybody was overjoyed when they at last approached land and stepped ashore. But some ships never arrived.

16. In the 17th century _____.
A. life on old sailing ships was enjoyable
B. people enjoyed sailing old ships in rough seas

- C. most of the passengers felt comfortable when the ship was rolling
D. it was very painful for both passengers and crew during the voyage

17. The passengers _____ when the ship was heavily rolling.
A. slept well
B. could drink a lot of water
C. had to stay below deck
D. had a big room of more than 5 foot high
18. Which of the following statements is true about food?
A. Passengers had a lot of vegetables, but no fruit.
B. The sailors had four tins of beer a day.
C. The people on the ship often fell ill because of the lack of food.
D. The food for the passengers was more and better than that for the crew.
19. The working condition of the sailors was very hard. _____.
A. They often had to set the sails in bad weather
B. So they had less courage
C. They were happy to be swept overboard in a strong wind
D. A 70-day-journey across the Atlantic was their happiest thing
20. When the people saw the land, _____.
A. only passengers were glad
B. the sailors had to swim ashore
C. they were surprised at the news that some ships never arrived
D. all of them were excited

Passage 3

No country in the world has more daily newspapers than the USA. There are almost 2,000 of them, as compared with 155 in Japan, 164 in Argentina and 111 in Britain. The quality of some American papers is extremely high and their views are quoted all over the world. Distinguished dailies like the Washington Post or the New York Times have a powerful influence all over the country. However, the Post and the Times are not national newspapers in the sense that The Times is in Britain or Le Monde is in France, since each American city has its own daily newspaper. The best of these present detailed accounts of national and international news, but many tend to limit themselves to state or cite news.

Like the press in most other countries, American newspapers range from the "sensational", which feature crime, sex and rumor, to the serious, which focus on factual news and the analysis of world events. But with few exceptions American newspapers try to entertain as well as give information, for they have to compete with television.

Just as American newspapers give way to all tastes, so do they also try and apply to readers for all political persuasions. A few newspapers support extremist groups on the far right and on the far left, but most daily newspapers attempt to attract middle-of-the-road Americans who are essentially moderate. Many of these papers print columns by well-known journalists of different political and social views, in order to present a balanced picture.

As in other democratic countries American newspapers can be either responsible or irresponsible, but it is generally accepted that the American press serves its country well and that it has more than once bravely uncovered political scandals (丑闻) or crimes, for instance, the Watergate Affair. The newspapers drew the attention of the public to the fears of the Vietnam War.

21. There are fewer national newspapers in _____.
A. Britain than in the USA
B. France than in Britain
C. the USA than in Britain or France
D. France than in the USA or Britain
22. Most American newspapers try to entertain their readers because _____.
A. they have to keep up a good relation with them
B. they have to compete with television
C. they have to write about crime, sex and rumor
D. they have to give factual news in an interesting way
23. Many American newspapers attract readers of different political tendency by _____.
A. supporting extremist groups from time to time
B. inviting middle-of-the-road Americans to write articles for them
C. avoiding carrying articles about extremists
D. printing articles representing different political viewpoints
24. In this passage, the word "press" in paragraph 2 means _____.
A. a machine for printing
B. the business of printing
C. great force
D. newspapers
25. The passage is mainly about _____.
A. the characteristics of American newspapers
B. the development of American newspapers
C. the functions of American newspapers
D. the merits and shortcomings of American newspapers

Passage 4

The top of the world is a wonderland. In winter, the temperature often falls to -30°F and the sun never rises. The ocean is surrounded by frozen ground. There are few people or trees, but to polar bears, the Arctic (北极) is home.

Polar bears have thick fur, big paws and other features that make them well prepared for life in their tough environment. In fact, they need the Arctic sea ice for survival. But climate change is causing larger and larger areas of summer sea ice to melt (融化). Experts say that if warming patterns continue, the Arctic could be free of summer sea ice by 2050. That may cause two-thirds of the world's 20,000 polar bears to be gone by then too.

Polar bears can't survive for long on land. Seals are their main source of food. The only place where polar bears can hunt seals is on the ice. Although these bears are strong swimmers, they are no match for lightning swift seals in the water. A polar bear has brilliantly clever strategies to overcome this disadvantage. In winter the bear waits motionless beside a seal's breathing hole, which is a narrow tunnel through the ice. Often many hours pass before the seal comes up for air and the bear kills it with a powerful blow of its paw. In summer, the polar bears that live on land eat very little and wait for the sea ice to return.

With the sea ice forming later in the year and melting earlier, polar bears do not have enough opportunity to hunt and eat. Less sea ice makes it harder for the bears to catch the seals. The bears must swim longer distances between ice packs (大片浮冰), and they can't always make it. The ice is also getting thinner. These conditions can cause polar-bear cubs to become separated from their mothers, who provide them with food.

Steven Amstrup is the chief scientist of Polar Bear International. The group aims to save the bears and their home. "The more people who see polar bears and understand their difficult situations, the better the chance we'll alter our warming path in time to save them," he says.

26. Which is the best title for the passage?
A. Climate Change in the Arctic
B. How to Protect the Environment
C. The Arctic Is Home to Polar Bears
D. Polar Bears in Danger
27. Where do polar bears usually hunt seals?
A. On land.
B. In open water.
C. In openings in the sea ice.
D. At the bottom of the sea.
28. The word "cubs" in the fourth paragraph is closest in meaning to _____.
A. adults
B. babies
C. hunters
D. enemies
29. According to the passage, which of the following statements is TRUE?
A. Starving polar bears are increasingly coming into villages, where they may be killed either for food or safety.
B. Polar bears can spend their entire lives on land if the sea ice melts completely.
C. Two-thirds of the world's polar bears may disappear by 2050 as global warming continues.
D. The growing distance between ice packs is not a problem for polar bears, because they are excellent swimmers.
30. What's the mission of Polar Bears International?
A. Saving energy.
B. Conducting scientific research.
C. Seeking international cooperation.
D. Saving polar bears and their home.

Part IV Translation (15 points)

Directions: Translate the following passage into Chinese and put your translation on the ANSWER SHEET.

The social costs of unemployment go far beyond the welfare and unemployment payments made the government. Unemployment increases the chances of divorce, child abuse, and alcoholism, a new federal survey shows. Some experts say the problem is only temporary—that new technology will eventually create as many jobs as it destroys. But futurologist Hymen Seymour says the astonishing efficiency of the new technology means there will be a simple net reduction in the amount of human labor that needs to be done. “We should treat this as an opportunity to give people more leisure. It may not be easy, but society will have to reach a new agreement on the division and distribution of labor.” Seymour says.

Part V Writing (15 points)

Directions: For this part, you are allowed 30 minutes to write a composition on the topic “Is a Test of Spoken English Necessary”. You should write in no less than 100 words, and base your composition on the outline given in Chinese below:

1. 很多人认为有必要举行口语考试,理由是……;
2. 也有人持不同的意见,……;
3. 我的看法和打算。
